MACKMEN GAIN PENNANT TODAY, 3-2

FURIOUS NINTH INNING REVEALS ATHLETICS POWER

HAD BEEN TRAILING BY TWO RUNS BEHIND THE ELATED CUBS

WALBERG IS WINNING PITCHER FOR THE PHILADELPHIANS

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor)

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—The Philadelphia Athletics became world champions of baseball this afternoon, defeating the Chicago Cubs in the fifth and final game of the October series.

A furious ninth inning when they were trailing by two runs behind the apparently victorious Cubs gave the Athletics all three of their runs and the championship.

The finish of the game and the series came with dramatic suddenness and upheld an old baseball superstition that he who strikes out the first man to face him is sure to meet defeat unless he also strikes out the second one.

Pat Malone whiffed Max Bishop for the first man up for the A's on a called third strike in today's first inning and then kept the Mackmen from getting a single runner to third base until the ninth when four of them hit him safely.

In the first eight innings Malone held the Athletics to two singles, one hit to left field by Al Simmons, first up for Philadelphia in the second inning and the other hit by Bing Miller in the fifth when Bing batted with Jimmy Foxx on first and one out. Foxx had reached first on a rank fumble by Hornsby of a simple grounder, the only error of the day.

Miller's hit also went to left field and sent Foxx to second base where he was stranded when the inning ended.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—With Herbert Hoover and some 30,000 other baseball fans in attendance, the fifth game of the 1929 world series today found the Philadelphia Athletics fighting to become champions of the world before nightfall, and the Chicago Cubs battling to keep the series going.

The Athletics, leading three games to one and needing but one victory to win the world's championship, were out early on the playing field, full of pep and confidence. The Cubs were grim and serious. Both teams had vivid recollections of Saturday's big seventh inning, when the A's practically put the series on ice, by scoring ten runs in one inning.

The presence of the nation's chief executive undoubtedly was counted an important action by Philadelphians and the arrival of President Hoover drew all attention away from playing field during practice.

A front bench near the home team's dugout was decorated with American flags for the president's party.

SOVIET PLANE IS SAFELY LANDED ON AMERICAN SOIL

COMPLETES MOST DANGEROUS FLIGHT SINCE THEY LEFT MOSCOW AUG. 23

4 BIG PLANE FLIERS LANDED AT LAKE WASHINGTON, SEATTLE, LATE SUNDAY

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—Safely landed on American soil after completing the most dangerous flight since they left Moscow August 23, the crew of the Russian monoplane, Land of the Soviets today were preparing for their projected four-stop flight to New York.

The four fliers, whose arrival here was delayed 10 days because of a forced stop at Waterfall, Alaska, landed their big plane on the waters of Lake Washington late Sunday. Semon Shestakov, first pilot, said the flight from Waterfall was "very dangerous" because of weather conditions.

The fliers revealed that they are "very anxious to try a trans-Atlantic flight" after reaching New York. Shestakov said that if the flight is attempted, they will try to reach Paris on one hop.

The Russians planned to take off for New York Wednesday or Thursday, with stops scheduled at San Francisco, Cheyenne, Wyo., Chicago and Dearborn, Mich. They have received a personal invitation from Henry Ford for a stop at the latter city.

FALL BRIBERY TRIAL ENTERS SECOND WEEK

CASE OF THE GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN NEARLY CONCLUDED

PROSECUTOR OWEN TO REST HIS CASE PROBABLY ON TUESDAY

By HERBERT LITTLE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Fall bribery trial entered its second week today, with the government case nearly concluded.

Government Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts expects to rest his case against former Interior Secretary Albert B. Fall probably Tuesday.

The defense plans to present its case in three or four days, which may make it possible for the jury of four women and eight men to start deliberating on the fate of the 68-year-old defendant by the end of this week, or early next week.

Fall's son-in-law, M. T. Everhart, was to be called to the stand today, to relate the story of Fall's receipt of $230,500 in Liberty bonds from Harry F. Sinclair, the oil multi-millionaire.

This transaction, the government contends, shows "guilty knowledge" on Fall's part as to the E. L. Doherty transaction, in which Fall received $100,000, and on which the present indictment is based.

Fall, who remained in bed over the week-end, was reported "about the same" by his physician, Dr. H. T. Sanford, but was expected to be present at the proceedings today. He has been suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

Doherty's version of the $100,000 transaction between him and Fall, which they contended was a "friendly loan," will be told to the jury by Doherty, chief defense witness. Both Sinclair and Doherty obtained valuable oil leases on navy lands from Fall.

The government already has introduced evidence to prove the money passed from Doherty to Fall.

It is virtually certain Fall's weakened condition will prevent him from taking the stand in his own defense.

HIGH SCHOOL WIENER ROAST CARRIES TRAGEDY

Washburn, Wis., Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—A high school wiener roast ended in tragedy here late Sunday when Walter McManus was killed and three other persons, including a teacher, were injured in a dynamite explosion.

The students were home-bound from the outdoor party when Walter found a stick of dynamite near the site of a bridge now under construction. In some unexplained manner the explosive was discharged in Walter's hands and he was almost instantly killed.

Mrs. Lenora Watson, teacher; Gertrude Peterson, 17, and Dorothy Holman, 16, students, were injured but were expected to recover.

RECREANT HUSBAND IS IN TROUBLE

HAD TIMEWORN ALIBI OF WORKING LATE AT THE OFFICE

Chicago, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—A husband who told the timeworn alibi of working late at the office to cover an evening out with two girls was in jail today facing charges of attacking and murdering a pretty stenographer.

The body of the girl, Miss Agnes Johnson, 26, was found yesterday when a police dog accompanying a posse scented it near a weed-grown roadside along a "lovers' lane" near West Chicago. It apparently had been dragged from a blood-stained automobile still parked on the road.

Checking the license plates, police found the car belonged to John Preston, 32, an interior decorator, who at that time was in jail in Wheaton where he had been picked up as a suspicious character.

Sheriff Hattendorf, of Dupage county, announced early today that Preston was being questioned. Hattendorf said Preston admitted being out with the two girls but denied any connection with the murder.

DIRIGIBLE R-101 OF ENGLAND IN TRIAL FLIGHT

Cardington, Eng., Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—The dirigible R-101, Great Britain's bid for air supremacy, which was declared obsolete by experts even before it was completed, was taken aloft on the first of a series of important trial flights shortly before noon today.

At 11.17 a. m. the huge airship with a crew of 75 men, was unfasted from the mooring mast and ascended to an altitude of about 1,000 feet, and proceeded in the direction of Oxford.

The test was expected to last for four or five hours. The big craft passed over London about 1:30 p. m.

COOL SEAMANSHIP PREVENTED PANIC ABOARD SHIP

EMPRESS OF CANADA GROUNDED ON ROCKS AT ALBERT HEAD

$1,000,000 DAMAGE DONE TO THE SHIP, 3 LARGE HOLES IN FORWARD PART

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—While a score of small tugs steamed and chugged about Albert Head attempting to pull the palatial steamer, Empress of Canada, off the rocks where she grounded early Sunday, a tale of cool seamanship that prevented a panic among its 150 passengers was told here today.

With a resounding crash that echoed through the dense fog in the narrow channel, the huge liner struck the rocks 20 miles west of here and fairly grounded itself.

The ship, in command of Captain E. Griffith, was being guided through the dangerous channel between William Head and Albert Head by Pilot Roberts. A moment after the impact, the passengers were on the deck, anxiously inquiring as to the cause of the crash.

The ship's crew rallied to the crisis, however, and managed to keep them in control and at the same time relieving them of their anxiety.

The passengers, numbering about 150, were taken from the vessel Sunday night by the steamer Otter and landed here. As they departed from the stricken ship, they noisily cheered Captain Griffith and shouted: "Good luck."

The vessel has three large holes stove in its forward part, it was said. The damage has been tentatively estimated at more than a million dollars.

Prompt counter moves by the government have already frustrated the southern campaign, the spokesman claimed. The government, he asserted, has long known that Feng would adopt the stand, his comic opera role of going abroad, and would attempt to stage a comeback with Soviet support.

The spokesman likewise charged that Russia has prolonged the Manchurian border crisis in order to devise the pro-government troops of Chang Haeh-Liang on the frontier.

London, Oct. 14.—Immediate action by the Nanking nationalist government to suppress the revolution of the so-called Christian General Feng Yu-Hsiang, was described today in a dispatch to the Daily Mail from its Hankow correspondent saying that extensive movements of government troops and munitions were occurring in Wuhan proceeding northward.

The dispatch said it was learned officially that six and a half divisions of nationalist troops already are in position along the border between Hupeh and Hunan provinces. It was understood an early attack on Feng Yu-Hsiang's troops was contemplated.

Los Angeles, Oct. 14.—(U.P.)—The church council is satisfied with the way Aimee Semple McPherson handled funds of Angelus temple, despite the fact an investigation is being conducted by the district attorney.

A statement signed by 43 members of the council said all were aware how the funds had been handled and were satisfied with the system.

The investigation was instigated by the Rev. John Goben, assistant pastor discharged by Mrs. McPherson on charges of causing dissension.

"The financial committee of this body has from time to time gone over the books at the invitation of Mrs. McPherson and each time has brought back a satisfactory report," the council statement read, in part.

DRIVER CLEARED OF DEATH BLAME

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict of Accidental Death in Case of Jeanette Bakkila

NINE WITNESSES TESTIFY

Matt Dumovich Said He Thought He Was Doing Good Turn in Giving Lift

Matt Dumovich, Crosby, was exonerated of blame in connection with the death of Jeanette Bakkila, 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bakkila Friday afternoon on highway No. 2 by a coroner's jury who returned a verdict late Saturday afternoon of accidental death.

The inquest was conducted by County Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan and Coroner D. E. Whitney. The jury fellows: Rev. F. C. Rathert, James Cullen, Andrew Wesley, Con Ilse, Louis F. Hohman, R. J. Hartley.

Nine witnesses testified concerning circumstances of the death of the child who died while being rushed to the hospital after being thrown head-first from the truck when it struck a bump in the road.

Lester Bakkila, 12, brother of the girl victim said that the truck driver stopped near the home of Earl O'Brien and asked his two sisters and him if they wanted a ride. They refused, the boy said, but accepted after the driver had said "a little way is better than none."

Lester told the jury that he stood on the running board and his two sisters climbed on the platform at the rear of the truck. Travelling a short distance the truck left the pavement and travelled on the shoulder a short distance, then turned back on the pavement again. Soon after coming back on the pavement Lester heard his sister scream "you killed my sister," the boy said.

The boy said he then jumped off the moving truck, rolling over in the dirt. He came back to where his sister lay and tried to pick her up. Charles Lawson who was travelling some distance back of the truck stopped his car, placed the child in the rear seat and rushed her to the hospital. The boy estimated that the truck was travelling 25 miles an hour.

Evelyn Bakkila, 9, sister to Jeanette said she and Jeanette were standing on the platform of the truck holding to the cab. She said there were no sides on the truck. She said that after a bump Jeanette lost her hold, kept her feet while on the truck and left the vehicle headfirst.

"I did not see her land because I didn't dare to look," Evelyn said in sobs.

Mr. Bakkila, the father testified that he came running to the scene of the accident when he heard the children scream. He said he told the driver that he thought it was a lot of nerve for him to pick up children in a truck.

Dr. J. A. Thabes said he examined the child when she was brought in the hospital. At that time the girl was dead, he said. He gave as the cause of death a fracture at the base of the skull.

Charles Lawson told of picking up the child from the pavement and rushing her to the hospital.

Mrs. Nettie Evans said she waved to the girls and they waved in return when the truck passed her house located only a short distance from where the accident happened.

Milo Downer said he came about five minutes after the accident. He said he told the man that he thought it was against the law for truck drivers to pick up children on the highway. Arthur Ryanov, 17, Crosby, told the jury he was riding in the cab with the driver at the time of the accident. He estimated that the truck was travelling about 15 miles an hour. He said that there were three stakes at the side of the platform and that a board was missing on the right side of the platform. The accident happened a short distance from where the children were to be let off.

Matt Dumovich said he had taken his sister to the hospital here and was returning to his home when he picked up the children to give them a lift and save them from walking in the rain. He estimated the speed of the truck at 12 miles an hour. He said that he stopped the truck immediately after hearing the girl scream.

The verdict as returned by the jury follows: "That said Jeanette Bakkila came to her death in falling off a truck driven by one Matt Dumovich on highway No. 2 on the afternoon of October 11, 1929 between the hour of 4 and 5 p. m. We find that the death was accidental."

The local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution opened the year's activities Thursday at Mrs. J. G. Heald's, South Seventh street apartments. Mrs. Heald and Mrs. W. H. Gemmell served a 1 o'clock luncheon to 12 members and three special guests—Mrs. C. M. Patek, Mrs. N. H. Ingersoll and Miss Anne Thorp.

A short program immediately followed the luncheon. Mrs. Gemmell spoke briefly of the life and work of Katherine Lee Bates, author of "America The Beautiful." Miss Thorp sang this as the first of a group of four songs, one of which illustrated the work of Jennie Mysen Lind as a librettist, and all displaying the gratifying results of Miss Thorp's recent year of hard work on a new method of voice culture.

Mrs. Patek's review of Honore Wilson Morrow's "With Malice Toward None" was admirably done, very comprehensive and gratifying to members of an organization dedicated to the "perpetuation of the memory and spirit" of those who have made and preserved this nation.

The regent, Mrs. Bronson of Merrill, presided at the regular business meeting which followed, and plans for the year's work were made and discussed.

The county and state highway departments have large crews dragging the roads.

Neighborliness in the Country

SOMEBODY once made the wise remark that big town people do not read the country press. They do read the rural press. Big city editors scan the columns as this story from the Minneapolis Journal evidences.

Good neighbors they must be, the dwellers of the countryside southwest of Pine River, in Cass county. No better, perhaps, than those of many another countryside, or of many an old home town, over the Northwest. For neighborliness in time of stress is a characteristic of rural communities. These Cass county folk, typical in their neighborliness, happen just now to exemplify the qualities that make rural communities strong and likable. The Pine River Sentinel-Blaze tells the story simply and well:

About sixty people, including neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Roske, living eleven miles southwest of Pine River, gathered at the Herman Peterson home in Bungo Friday evening, as a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Roske, whose house and furnishings were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, while the family were visiting in west central Minnesota. Nothing was saved. All their personal belongings, consisting of furniture, clothing, bed clothes and canned goods which they had prepared for winter, went up in smoke. Neighbors of the Roske family held a surprise shower at the Peterson home to show their sympathy. These neighbors felt that the family was of the type of people that help a community prosper, and should be induced to renew their efforts to build up a new home. Useful gifts of every description were presented—upholstered chairs, ironing board, dishes, glassware, canned foods, quilts and other bedding, and numerous other articles—with hopes that they would be useful.

There is more of the story. But this is sufficient to reveal the sort of neighborliness that makes the rural community an abiding place to be regarded lovingly and happily. Oh, there is one other sentence that must be reprinted:

A bountiful lunch was served, following the opening of the gifts, which all enjoyed very much.

Is there any hurrying city dweller, member howsoever of any group or coterie of urban ways and likewise urban isolation, who would not like to have been there, when the bountiful lunch was served? Urban as well as rural life has its advantages; but there is no heartfelt neighborliness like that of the countryside.

Power and the Farmer

THE importance of power as the right arm of American agriculture is disclosed in a report on The Mechanization of Agriculture just issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"American agriculture," it points out, "has more power available for its use than any other branch of American industry except railway transportation. It has more power available per worker than the combined manufacturing industries and uses more power annually than all of the mining industries.

"But in spite of the enormous amount of power available for agriculture, many farm operations still are hand processes, and less power is utilized annually per worker on farms than in any other American industry. The power problem in agriculture consists not so much of adding greatly to the number of power units on farms as it does of securing a more continuous use of the power units already available, of providing power in such forms that more of it can be utilized by each worker, and of mechanizing a number of farm operations which still require a prodigious expenditure of human effort."

The most spectacular developments, the report continues, have occurred in the field of harvesting machinery. Combined harvester-threshers, together with the tractor and motor truck, have revolutionized wheat growing in the western Central Plains. Mechanical corn pickers are coming into common use and the cotton sled or stripper has reduced the cost of harvesting cotton $10 a bale.

Trying to Be Funny

IT takes real art and genius to be foolishly funny. Many stunts on a vaudeville stage, oftentimes only a 15 minute sketch, may have been evolved only after months of tedious effort.

The stunt nights of the various Greek letter girl societies, as revealed in all their splendor at Breezy Point Lodge last year, had months spent in their preparation. One especially appealing and winner of a first prize was a Dixie wedding with bridal couple, minister and attendants singing and Charlestoning their way through the act. The girls worked months on this short act.

The Rotarians and teachers are thinking long and hard evolving stunts for the teachers banquet Wednesday, October 23. Some of the greatest local poets are striving hard to make their jingles rhyme and to carry their points to the rhythm of popular melodies. Both sides, it is said, are appealing for new ideas.

Radio and World Series

THE radio left the fans of Brainerd in a dreadful state last Saturday. Simmons had just started the fatal seventh with a home run, when the Minnesota-Vanderbilt game took the boards, shunting the baseball recital into the discard.

Who cared for football just at that time. That epochal inning was missed by the announcer and fans came straying to the Dispatch office to find out what had happened.

The football game came near ending 15 to 12. Nevertheless what is a touchdown or two compared with 10 runs crossing the plate.

So Comfortable at Home

MANY a modern home equipped with the ever popular radio is a most comfortable place these autumn evenings. Snuggly ensconced, one hates to leave the comfort of his society with books, pipe, papers handy and the oil burner working meticulously. It's becoming increasingly difficult to muster a corporal's guard in some lodges in the country and members only pour out when there is something special on.

EVERY housewife knows how dust accumulates in an attic. Great Britain's new dirigible R-101 gathered tons of dust in the five years it took to build it and now, on its first public appearance, the wind is "dusting it off."

Canned Moonlight in "Our Modern Maidens"

Canned moonlight is the latest discovery of motion pictures and is to be seen in "Our Modern Maidens," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of ultra-modern youth, now playing at the Lyceum theatre. Desirous of obtaining soft moonlight touches in a highly romantic scene between Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Crawford, the star, it was found that by careful lighting with incandescent lights, on silver painted leaves and other scrubbery used as a background, the effect could be obtained where real moonlight failed to photograph. Seven gallons of this silver compound was sprayed by air-gun on the grass and other foliage.

"Our Modern Maidens" is described as an epic of the era of jazz-mad youth. An extraordinary cast, typical of youth, handle the various roles.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BETTING 20 TO 1 THAT MACKMEN WOULD WIN THE SERIES

CONFIDENCE IS JUST OOZING
FROM ATHLETICS

HIGH SPOT OF SERIES IS 7TH
INNING OF COLORFUL

MACKMEN ARE IN STRATEGIC POSITION AS FAR AS MATHE-MATICS ARE CONCERNED

Philadelphia, Oct. 14. — The 1929 world series, which reached its climax during the spectacular seventh inning rally of the Philadelphia Athletics in the fourth game, may be ended here this afternoon. Out in front, three games to one, the American League champions needed but one more victory over the Chicago Cubs to become champions of the world.

President Hoover announced his intention of attending today's game, but he certainly had less doubt over the outcome of this decisive game of the October engagement than he had regarding his republican nomination in 1928.

The betting odds were 2 to 1 that the Athletics would win this afternoon, and 20 to 1 that they would win the series.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs, had no choice but to send Guy Bush back against the Mackmen. Bush being the only Chicago pitcher who has held his own against the American Leaguers. Connie Mack announced last night that he would start "Lefty" Grove against the Cubs but Connie's announcements are subject to change without notice.

Grove, used thus far only as a relief hurler, has been most effective. The question of whether he could last through an entire world series game, with a blister on his pitching hand, remains unanswered.

Whatever happens from now on, the high spot of the series is bound to be the seventh inning of the fourth game, in which the Athletics scored ten runs and took all the heart out of the Cubs. Before the American League champions cut loose Saturday, no team ever had scored more than eight runs in one inning during a world series game.

There has been no stopping these Athletics. They came from far behind to win the fourth game and crush their rivals. Anyone who thinks they will not continue to do so can write his own ticket.

The Mackmen are in a strategic position as far as mathematics are concerned. More than that, they have all the confidence bred of their great rally which won the fourth game, while the Chicago Cubs only have the memories of a procession of American League base runners, going around going around and around.

A fighter who takes it on the chin ten times in one round seldom is effective soon afterwards. The Chicago team is in the position of just such a boxer. The Cubs have stood by and watched their opponents score no fewer than ten runs in a single inning. The National Leaguers are likely to hand out just as many runs today.

"Lemme at 'em," Bush demanded last night when the question of Chicago's starting pitcher was being debated. The boy from Mississippi has all the confidence in the world.

JOESTING AND HAYCRAFT LEAD TEAM TO WIN

Minneapolis, Oct. 14. — (U.P.)—Herb Joesting and Kenneth Haycraft, former Minnesota all-American fullback and end, led the Minneapolis Red Jackets to a 14 to 7 victory over Erie Nats' Chicago Cardinals here today. Among the other former Gopher stars in the Red Jacket lineup were Mally Nydahl and Chief Franta.

KANSAS CITY WINS JUNIOR WORLD SERIES

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 14. — (U.P.)—Kansas City's American association pennant winners became 1929 minor league champions as a result of their 11-inning 6 to 3 victory over Rochester's International league champions in the ninth and deciding game of the little world series Sunday.

The final game was marred by frequent arguments between the players, a fist fight between Carleton, Rochester pitcher, and Riconda, Blues' infielder, and near riot caused by a Rochester fan attacking a Kansas City player at the close of the contest.

The disturbance resulted in the arrest of the offending fan and a hurried call for police reserves who escorted the Kansas City players and the umpires to safety.

PURDUE HAS STARTLING WIN OVER MICHIGAN

BOILERMAKERS AMASS 30 TO 16
VICTORY OVER WOLVERINE TEAM

CHICAGO BEAT INDIANA 13 TO 7;
OHIO STATE DEFEATED IOWA
7-6; N. W. BEAT WISCONSIN

By BERT DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Oct. 14. — "Watch Purdue!" As the Big Ten football teams, fighting either to continue on their winning ways or to erase defeat blots already registered against them, went to practice today, that slogan seemed uppermost in western conference circles.

The apprehension regarding that Boilermaker outfit which Coach Jimmy Phelan has moulded together came as the result of the startling 30-16 victory over Michigan Saturday and incidentally only one of four upsets which occurred during the day's play.

Not in recent history have four conference games gone so against the prediction as those did Saturday. Before the day's play, Michigan was favored to defeat Purdue; Wisconsin was looked for a victory over Northwestern; Chicago was expected to lose to Indiana, and Iowa figured to beat Ohio State.

The results were exactly the opposite. Purdue beat Michigan, 30-16; Chicago beat Indiana, 13-7; Iowa lost to Ohio State, 7-6, and Northwestern won from Wisconsin, 7-0.

Doubtless the Purdue victory was the most astounding. Playing a team which was conceded a good chance to win this year's Big Ten title, the Boilermakers literally ran rings around Coach Harry Kipke's Michigan aggregation.
Northwestern's defeat of Wisconsin was costly. The Purple lost the services of Hank Bruder for the year when he was carried off the field with a broken leg.

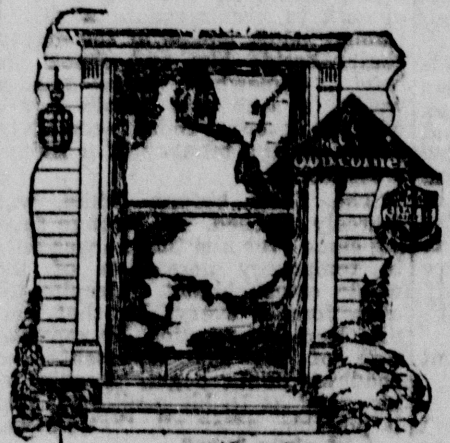

Chicago's showing certainly was unexpected. The Maroons failed to win a conference game last year and the material for this year was considered weak but Coach Alonzo Stagg has molded it into a fighting combination. However, Indiana's fumbles and wild passes from center doubtless had something to do with the Hoosier loss.

Iowa's loss to Ohio is explainable from several reasons. To begin with, there was the missed goal after touchdown which would have brought a tie. Then there were numerous penalties and fumbles.

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Eddie Regan, once a member of a New York gang, has broken away and gone to Virginia, where he befriends Penfield Paradine, who dies and leaves all his possessions to Eddie. Eddie had been in love with Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," but all thought of her is lost when he meets and falls in love with Marian Thorndike. Marian is engaged to Tom Freeman. Freeman and Eddie dislike each other, and Eddie, discouraged, goes to Richmond, where he meets Mike Arno, a former member of the gang, who tries to persuade him to return to New York and Bernice. Eddie refuses and returns to his farm. He goes to dinner at the Thorndike home, and Mr. Thorndike questions him as to his past. Bernice Veressi comes to Eddie's home and informs him she has come to stay. He tells her it is impossible, and she agrees to leave. He is escorting her back to the village when he comes face to face with Marian and her father.

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER XLII.
"If you were a friend of mine," he reminded her, "you'd let me work out my problems in my own way. It's a lot easier for you to be a sweetheart than it is to be a friend, isn't it?"

"I suppose so," Bernice admitted. "I'm trying to forget for a minute that I love you and look at it like a friend. I am your kind of a girl—even if you don't know it now. You're my kind of a man. We speak the same kind of language. What do I care whether we marry or not? I could make you happy and you could make me happy. Do you think I'm crazy?"

"I think you're mistaken, that's all."

"To me it's as plain as day that you are the mistaken one."

Her eyes pleaded.

"You're in trouble but you don't know it. I'm going to stick around and see what I can do even if it does hurt your feelings a little bit."

"I suppose you're going to explain all that to the people in the hotel?"

Bernice shrugged her shoulders in her slightly foreign manner.

"At the hotel I'll say I'm just taking a vacation in the country. Maybe I can hire a car and drive around in the afternoons."

"How long do you expect to keep this up?"

Again she shrugged.

"I'll tell you the other of us finds out the truth, the real truth."

Eddie knew with all his heart that he could tell her the entire truth then; that she could say forever, but his love was irrevocably Marian Thorndike's.

There was nothing more he could say, nothing more he could do.

Returning home he was filled with dismal forebodings and the black face of old Toke, too, was somber with deep intuitive misgivings.

He went into the house and sat motionless a long time trying to solve the most difficult problem his life had so far encountered.

It was characteristic of the old

Negro that he asked no questions of Eddie. Silently he placed the dinner on the broad mahogany table, and lit the candles in their silver sticks.

Sitting alone in the spacious dining room at the board large enough to accommodate a whole family, Eddie looked at the empty chairs beside him and shook his head. Somewhere there was a waste, a loss—the whole house with its deserted rooms seemed to yearn for the tenancy of a living, a family life.

The food before Eddie was scarcely touched. The strange feeling came over him that he was only in temporary possession of the whole establishment. Despite his objections to everything that Bernice Veressi had said—his repudiation of all she represented—a shadowy doubt began to grow in his mind as to his position. Was it possible, after all, that he was out of place here?

Maybe she was right—maybe it was hopeless to rebuild his life in correspondence with the lives of these people down here. Their viewpoint, traditions, customs, that his neighbors had been absorbing from birth—tricks of thought and conduct that no outsider, perhaps could ever quite master.

It was easy, natural, for him to look at life with New York's eyes, but everybody around him would have a different slant at things.

Even Marian—were their viewpoints, really, at all similar? Even if she married him—the odds were against him—would they be happy after the first thrills wore off?

Bernice had said it would be a prolonged battle with Marian trying to make him over into her idea of what a man should be.

The sudden thought came to Eddie that, in fact, Marian had already attempted something of the kind. She had spoken of her disapproval of his ambition, his standing. He had worked until his hands were blistered, and she had likened him only to an illiterate laborer.

Somewhere she sensed a lack of worth in him, but she had been able to point out any specific path of progress. Merely, she had expressed dissatisfaction, had made him skeptical of himself.

There was no solution for that sort of thing. It wouldn't get any place. Had not this been, already, the sowing of the first seeds of unhappiness? What sort of harvest could they expect to reap?

Toke, with his lugubrious face, came into the room and began removing dishes from the table. Somehow, it seemed to Eddie, there was a stubborn silence about the old negro that he was akin to sullenness. He had a feeling that Toke, too, was beginning to disapprove of him. Even an old black man, unable to read or write, was able to sense something basically wrong. . . . was able to detect the cord of disharmony that Bernice Veressi had struck.

"What's the matter with you, Toke?" Eddie demanded, impatiently.

"Nuffin', suh."

"Don't hand me that—you are sulking. What's on your mind?"

Toke paused, stood awkwardly with a plate in his hand.

"Ah jes' feels unhappy today, suh. 'Tis de weathah, mebbe. Storm clouds banking up in the west."

"You're not worrying about the weather," Eddie said, despondently. "What was the matter with that young lady who came here to see me? Why didn't you like her?"

"Ah ain't sed nary word agin her—"

"Your face is a foot long! A person would think that I had been getting away with murder or something around this house—from the way you're acting. I couldn't help it, could I?"

Eddie heard his own voice rising almost in anger. Strange. . . . "I tell you I couldn't help it!"

The black face seemed incapable of any changing expression.

"Tain't none of my business, suh."

"As long as I stay here and you keep working for me anything that happens around here concerns you—and don't you forget it! I won't have you blaming me for things I can't help."

"Ah don't blame you, suh."

"What's the matter with you then?"

The old, yellowed eyes rolled slightly. "Whut kin Ah say, suh? Ah's jes' an old Nigger. From de time I was a little boy Ah ain't knowed no othah home. I been hoping, Mistah Regan, dat yo' would git yo'self married and settle down. Yo' kin count on me foh de rest of mah days—but you can't marry no quality lady if yo' has ladies lak dat one today coming around de place. Yo' good name is bound to run down hill."

(To be continued tomorrow.)

FACES CHARGES OF STEALING CLOTHES

August DePape Arrested at Aitkin, Accused of Stealing Dresses in Deerwood Hotel

HELD TO DISTRICT COURT

Sheriff Theorin Traces Car Driven by DePape as One Stolen From Storm Lake, Ia.

August DePape, 27 years old, married, with a family of three, who gives as his home "anywhere I hang my hat" was held to district court on $300 bonds in municipal court where he was arraigned this morning on the charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

DePape is accused of stealing six dresses and one coat, the property of the Misses Irene and Hazel Winquist from their rooms in the Deerwood hotel at Deerwood on October 1.

The clothing was recovered in a cottage which DePape had rented for his family at Vineland. The defendant was arrested at Aitkin on information from Sheriff Claus A. Theorin who stated today that the car used by the DePapes in their travels is one stolen from Storm Lake, Ia. Sheriff Theorin stated that licenses on the car were stolen at Wilmar, Minn.

DePape had travelled 19,000 miles since stealing the automobile in Iowa, the sheriff said.

The defendant who has failed to furnish bonds told authorities that he has been in every state in the United States; that he remained in one locality only to secure money enough to keep him going. His family always travelled with him, he said.

DePape stated in municipal court that he did not expect to deny the charge against him. He took the clothing for his family, he said.

REVIVAL MEETINGS

Evangelist Pearl Gilliland Starts Meetings at Full Gospel Assembly

Evangelist Pearl Gilliland opened an old time revival campaign at the Full Gospel Assembly yesterday, a good crowd was in attendance at each service. The evangelist took her text for the evening service from Amos 4:12, "Prepare to meet the God." She stated that there was one thing every man must do and that was to eventually stand before God, she said we might put off everything else but this one thing was sure and that it would pay to make all preparation for this event and that the only real preparation was to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and be saved.

The meeting will continue for two weeks or longer beginning each night at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Gilliland has been in evangelistic work for 17 years, has travelled from coast to coast and preached in a great many of our larger cities and towns over the United States, coming from Houston, Texas to Brainerd.

Christians of all denominations are invited to come and assist in these services and sinners of all classes are invited to come and be saved, said Rev. Miller.

Waggoner Gets Fifteen Years

A dazed, dejected man stood before Federal Judge Coleman and heard sentence passed on him—"Fifteen years in Atlanta." To the surprise of the court, the prosecution, the hundreds of spectators and even his own counsel, he had just admitted his guilt and insisted on putting himself on the mercy of the court. Charles D. Waggoner, fifty-six, head of the only bank in Telluride, Colo., financial adviser and custodian of the savings of the few thousand persons in that little town that had once flourished with two prosperous industries—mining and cattle—honored, trusted and held in good repute, now a numbered felon.
